Democratic Convention.

Pursuant to the instructions of the Democratic State Central Committee, a mass meeting of the Democrats of Crittenden county is hereby called to meet in Marion on Saturday, May 14, 1892, at 2 o'clock p.m., for the purpose of appointing delegates to the State convention to be held in Louisville, May 24, for the purpose of selecting delegates to represent the Democrats of Kentucky in the National Democratic Convention at Chicago in June.

Memphis Democrats have organized a big Cleveland Tariff Reform

A bill will be introduced in Congress to reduce the duty on tin plate from 2-10 to 1 per cent per pound.

Gov. McKinley emphatically says that he will not be in Mr. Harrison's way for the Republican nomination.

As returns from the back precincts come in the evidence of Cleveland's substantial popularity grows stronger.

New York sent the electric current through the body of another convict Monday. Jeremiah Cotto was executed by electricity.

So far all of the announced candidates for delegates to the Chicago Convention from the western districts of Kentucky are for Cleveland.

One economical measure passed by the legislature and now a law directs the Circuit Judges of the First Superior Court District to send convicts direct to the Eddyville penitentiary. Heretofore all have been sent to Frankfort first, and then the commissioners would return such as they pleased to Eddyville.

Sunday base ball playing in Kentucky is not popular with the committee to which the bill prohibiting it was referred. This committee reports that the bill ought to be passed. This committee is right, too. We kick a great deal about puritanical laws, but there could be a large per cent of these wholesome injunctions incorporated into our laws without putting us up to the puritanical standard.

May the 14th is a good time for the Democrats of Crittenden county to get together. Lay aside your work that day, and take a turn at naming a candidate for President. We are a very small factor when compared with the thousands of Democrats from one end of the country to the other, but we can talk and as much to the point as an integral part of the party.

John Hendrick is an untrained two-year-old. He is troublesome, gets started on the well worn, yet rough, Congressional race course. When the drum does tap, he will wait for his co-laborers before the wire is reached. The latest news is from the Courier-Journal and runs like this: "A straight tip comes from Paducah that ex-Senator John K. Hendricks has definitely determined to enter the race for Congress, and that his formal announcement will appear in a day or two."

Lyon county has begun the long, tedious and burdensome process of liquidating her railroad debt. The Eddyville Tale says:

"The people of the county are paying the railroad taxes right along and taking advantage of the 5 per cent. discount. The Treasurer, T. H. Molloy, made the first shipment of money to the Fidelity Trust and Safety Vault Company, at Louisville Wednesday. Therefore our country debt has already begun to grow smaller, and we predict that it will be only a few short years before Lyon county will be one of the most prosperous counties in this end of the State."

Charlie Meacham, of the Hopkinsville Kentuckian, has announced that he desires to be one of the Second district delegates to the Chicago Convention. He has fought the battles of Democracy in season and out of season in the hopelessly Republican county of Christian, and his fighting has not always been vain, either. The Democrats of that district will not show a proper appreciation of his services as well as ability, if they fail to give him the honor of a delegation.

The Legislature is going to ingraft into the election law a section prohibiting the sale of liquor on general or primary election days. His many friends and customers regret his resignation.

FINE TOBACCO.

A Large Quantity, Exceedingly Well Handled.

Tuesday a PRESS reported visited A. H. Cardin's large tobacco stem-mill at this place. Mr. W. D. Baird, the superintendent, accompanied the writer over the three floors of the big house, and pointed out the various grades of the largest and best purchase of tobacco ever made by one firm in Crittenden county. About one hundred hands were busily engaged in the conveniently arranged stemming room on the first floor; while on the same floor in another room one force of hands were receiving and weighing and another "ooe prizing." The second story is pretty well filled with hanging strips, and here the great care that has been used in handling and assorting is plainly visible. The floor is spacious and clean, and the hanging tobacco looks as pretty, neat, clean and straight as goods in a show window. Five assortments have been carefully made, two lengths and three colors. Looking under the lower tier, the lengths are readily observed, and going down the aisles the three colors are easily detected—the bright, the dark and the medium. The third story is filled with the strips, and here the same care and attention have been observed. Little aisles lead all through the rooms, and Mr. Baird can place his hand on the various grades of almost every man's crop, which Cardin's good prices have taken to his house. The grade of the purchases is far above the average; the smooth, lengthy, clean, the tough, oily leaves are pleasant to the touch and eye, and tempting to the taste. No man can look at this house of magnificent tobacco without recognizing the prowess of our Kentucky soil and the skill of the tinner there. Mr. Cardin has had thirty years experience in the business and has reason to be proud of his this year's purchase. He has frequently offered premiums for the best handled crops, and his interest in the growers portion of the business is great. It seems that Wheeler has been married three times, and had been divorced from two of his wives; he had written an insulting letter to his second wife, who was a sister of Rodgers, and the latter proceeded to punish Wheeler with his fist for the insult. Justice Jackson fined Rodgers $5.

We strayed into the Sheriff's office Tuesday, and found two of the old citizens exchanging reminiscences of the past. They were Messrs. Thos. Greer and J. H. Walker, and the numerous incidents, personal and impersonal, of the thirties and forties were full of interest. Mr. Greer is in his eighty-second year. In 1836 he worked as a tailor near where Fredonia now stands, and where a country store was run by Harvey Bigham. The man on whose land the store was located, Mr. Rice, would not agree to sell any of his possession for town lots, and Bigham purchased land from Jesse Pemberton and began the town of Fredonia. The price paid for the land was $10 per acre, and it was then considered an enormous price. To meet his payment Bigham afterwards sold a portion of the land Jacob B. Crider, who moved from near Piney camp ground and located on his purchase. Jacob B. Crider was the father of Hon. J. E. Crider. When Mr. Greer had related the details of the settlement of that section, he asked Mr. Walker if he remem bered his brother. The reply was: "Certainly I do. In 1840 he was a saddler at Salem, and my father agreed that I should buy a saddle—my first one—of him, and I took 900 pounds of pork to Salem and gave it for the saddle, the price of which was $18." Thus the two old gentlemen continued, calling up incidents and people of the past.

A Card From Hon. S. O. Nunn.

EDITOR CRITTENDEN PRESS:—Some time ago I took a notion to go, or that I wanted to go, to the National Democratic Convention as a delegate from this Congressional district. Following up my feelings I wrote letters to a majority of the counties, asking about my chance, and the answer was from every county that I could carry the county. But before I could afford to go or make a race for the position, I had to have permission from the Commissioners to do so. This I failed to get, and for this reason alone I will not ask for the place. I would have been glad to have had the honor but could not afford to give up an office that paid for one that was nothing but honor.

Four years ago I did everything I could for Isaac P. Gray for the Vice Presidency, and I believed then and do now that if he had been put on the Democratic ticket we would have carried Indiana. Unless a great change between now and the convention, I am for Gray again for the second place on our ticket. In the last Presidential contest I was for nominating Cleveland against the world, but I am one of the Democrats that is getting very tired of the Republicans having the Presidency and any sort of a Democrat would suit me better than the finest Republican in the land, and I don't believe Cleveland can win; he lost New York in 1888, and a few days ago the Democrats in New York in convention instructed their delegates against Cleveland. I don't believe the Democratic party can win without New and Indiana, and I do believe that the friends of Cleveland and Hill in New York would vote solid for some other man if both Cleveland and Hill were defeated. Kentucky has some of the brainiest men of any State in the Union, but on account of our State being safely Democratic, we are left out, in having the nominee for President or Vice President every time before, and now is our time. Bring out Carlisle, Watterson, Brown, or some other good man, as Kentucky is full of men qualified for the Presidency. For delegates from the State at large, Brown, Watterson, Owens, Garnett or Rhea would make a good team.

In conclusion, permit me to say that the Republicans acted wisely in nominating and electing McKinley, but what did the Democrats do. In a house where Democrats had a majority, they defeated Roger Q. Mills, the great tariff reform leader, the effect of which will be felt in the coming Presidential race. I don't get to see the Democrats of Crittenden as often as I use to, but I am still with you, and in conclusion, permit me to say I never met cleverer people in my life than the people of Lyon county.
